Threshing Is General

Threshing was held up several days last week owing to a heavy rain storm on Thursday, but was resumed Monday, and a number of outfits that had previously been operating this season got into operation on Monday, so that threshing can now be stated to be general.

Summerfallow is turning out anywhere from fifteen to thirty-five bushels, stubble and spring plowing not so good, but on the whole the crop return will be satisfactory. There will be a number of exceptionally good crops, but very little summerfallow has yet been threshed.

The labor supply seems to be plentiful. Rockyford threshermen agreed not to pay more than $1.00 per day for men, but we understand that some local threshermen are paying $3.50 and $4.00 per day.

Five degrees of frost were registered following the rain last week, but the damage was done except to flowers and garden stuff, and to late oats. Wheat was all cut, and what crop remained to be cut was either ripe or intended for green feed.

THE O. S. A. ASSISTS IN MAKING FARMING PROFITABLE

During recent years it has been very difficult for farmers to show that they have received a labor income. Only those men who thoroughly understand their business, both from practical and an executive viewpoint, have been able to show a profit on their year's endeavor. The twentieth century is an age of trained men, those without special training are handicapped in all lines of business.

Not many years since special agricultural education was considered impractical and unnecessary; today statistics show that those farmers who are above the average in training are appreciably more successful than the untrained men.

The purpose of the Old School of Agriculture, which opens its doors to classes for the eleventh time on Oct. 28 of this year, is to give to farmers and their sons that special instruction that will fit them to cope successfully with the difficulties of modern farming, and to give to farm girls such training as will make them efficient house-makers as well as practically fitting students for further study, leading to degrees of agriculture or domestic science.

Stolen Car Smashes at Hartel's Coulee

Tuesday morning, Mr. Chas. Hartel found a Chevrolet car overturned on the bank near the top of the coulee at his place. He notified the Provincial Police, and the car was towed into White's Garage, Strathmore.

The owner of the car, H. Doane, 221 Aberdeen St., Medicine Hat, came to town next day. He stated that the car had been stolen on the 8th from his garage. The top of the car was smashed, one wheel off, windshield broken, fenders, etc., damaged.

No trace was found of the occupants of the car, but it was difficult to believe that they could possibly have escaped without injury.

Mr. Doane stated that the car was practically a new one, having only been driven 800 miles at the time it was stolen. The speedometer showed that the thieves had driven it 1200 miles at the time they had it. They were travelling east at the time, and the accident had happened on the east side of the coulee.

The Provincial Police are making every effort to trace the men.

Calgary police arrested two men, William Parlee and Jack Goodwin, on Saturday, who are believed to be those responsible for the theft and damage to the car. Parlee is 29 years of age and Goodwin 19. They are charged with fourteen offences, including shopbreaking, burglary, and stealing motor cars, the total involved being $684. Police officers say that they made full confessions. In addition to stealing motor cars and shopbreaking, they stole large quantities of beer from the Bassano beer warehouse, and from the Lethbridge Brewing warehouse in Calgary.

They have been held in Edmonton. Those seed producers in the province who contemplate exhibiting should apply to the Field Crops Branch, Dept. of Agriculture, at Edmonton, for catalogue and entry form.

Wobblers at Strathmore

Among the harvest hands in the Western Bow Valley this fall are alleged to be a number of what are known as "I.W.W.'s" or "Wobblers". In the opening days of threshing some of them were around the station, and in restaurants, etc., spreading dissatisfaction among the harvest hands.

There is no shortage of harvest help this year, but some of the outfits had to close down temporarily on account of their men deserting.

One case of attempted damage to a threshing outfit was brought forward last week, but it was impossible to secure enough evidence. However, the disturbing element have now disappeared, and the deputations meeting the trains and inciting discontent in other places have gone, being faced with the risk of imprisonment for vagrancy.

- While we are always pleased to welcome correspondence, we would like to have correspondence mailed or sent in so that it will reach our office on Monday, before noon preferred.
- Later items can be phoned in.
- When matter arrives on Tuesday afternoon it often delays publication of the Standard, and may result in our missing the Wednesday mails. This is especially so in the winter season now approaching, as during that period there are more difficulties connected with newspaper publication. Advertisements should also be in as early as possible.
- Early receipt of matter intended for publication enables us to produce a better-edited and better printed paper. Thanks!

Days We'll Never Forget

School Fair

During the week entry tags and other material have been sent out to the various teachers. It is requested that the "parent-teacher vouchers" be in the hands of the secretary on the day of the fair. In the case of school reductions the signature of the teacher will be sufficient.

All unused supplies should be brought to the school. It is important that all schools be ready to parade at the park at 1:20 p.m.

The physical training contest will be held immediately afterwards at the school grounds. Each team will be allowed ten minutes.

The attention of all concerned is again drawn to the regulation requiring composition to be in the hands of the secretary by Friday evening, September 26th.

Classes numbers 46, 48, etc., in the School Fair Bulletin, to which, as was announced in last week's Standard, prizes will be awarded will be 113, 114 etc., and number 167 will be number 193. Otherwise the numbers in the prize list will be used.

All teachers in the district please remember the meeting to be held in the Strathmore school Wednesday, October 8th, at 5 p.m.

The School Fair Committee, desirous of constantly improving the fair, and believing it to possess great educational possibilities, are desirous of receiving suggestions, whereby these ambitions may be realized.

Coming Events

The Woman's Institute will serve lunch at the School Fair, September 26th, in the High School Building commencing at 11 o'clock. There will be ice cream and candies for sale.

Reserve November 7th for the Masquerade Ball at Nightingale Hall, 1:10 p.m.

Boys and Girls, Men and Women—Come to Strathmore School Fair Tuesday.

Fall Moisture

Many farmers are using water at this time of year to fill stock water ponds and for threshing engines and teams. Also many are preparing to irrigate stubble fields and summerfallow.

There should be further careful consideration of the advisability of storing grain where field threshing cannot be done promptly, so as to save the threshing charges and have the land clear for fall irrigation.

Experience has shown that one good irrigation will insure a good grain crop under nearly all conditions. As long as most of our land is in grain, it is impossible to irrigate the entire acreage in June; so that if a third or a half of the area to be cropped next year were irrigated this fall, it would be very desirable. The rush to irrigate a large area after it begins to burn, as occurred this year, results in poor work, uneven results, and waste of water with all its attendant evils.

It is better not to irrigate unless there are plenty of ditches and some way with the water and see that it spreads properly. No irrigable land should be seeded or irrigated without being prepared by smoothing with the 18 foot lever. Some of our lands should not be irrigated at all until graded, surface drained and smoothed.

The rainfall from January 1st to September 1st this year on the Western Section averaged 10.42 inches, which is not far from the general average; but owing to its distribution and owing to previous dry years, there is not much store water in the subsoil except where it has been placed there by irrigation, or held by very good summer fallow. Early moisture is essential for the production of good crops and fall irrigation, if carefully carried out, is a good thing on land that can be made ready. The ditches should not be over 50 to 75 feet apart as near by all our land is rough and has not been smoothed for irrigation. The summerfallow can, of course, be smoothed with the 18 foot lever and so on no account should be omitted; but since the soil is soft and washes easily, it is still advisable to have the ditches close together.

A summerfallow this year that has been kept clean and which has been cultivated after each heavy rain should produce a crop next year even under a deficient rainfall as was the case this year, but irrigating is likely to increase the yield 5 to 10 bushels per acre unless the rainfall should be ample.

Land irrigated this fall should be harrowed if possible to get on it before the freeze.

GENERAL STORE BROKEN INTO

On Thursday night last, by removing a pane of glass on the east side of J. W. McIntosh store, burglars gained an entrance into the store room. They then pried open the door leading into the main part and office, and proceeded to gather all available cash by paying open all of the drawers in the post office, from which they extracted around twenty dollars in bills, over- looking around store drawers in silver which was in a sliding drawer over the bills.

The cash register was also pilfered of a small amount, here again they were fortunate enough to leave one dollar and fifty cents change for the next days business.

Mr. McIntosh phoned the Provincial Police, at Glendon, early on Friday morning, and on the same day before one of the force was on the scene. He was, however, unable to find any definite clue which might lead to the arrest of the marauders.

It was up to the local school to make the big find, one Paul Moller, who unearthed a 6 chamber revolver, a heavy belt containing a dagger, several bottles of liniment and lemon extract. This he located on the opposite side of the track close to the Namaka Farm coal shed. We are now looking for him to shortly make an arrest.

On Sunday next the 27th inst. Rally Day service will be held in Namaka. Everyone is invited to attend.

Town Council Meet Tuesday

The regular meeting of Strathmore Town Council was held on Tuesday, September 16, Mayor Bell presiding, and the full Council being present.

It was decided to do some work on the roads leading into Strathmore, to put them in shape for the grain and other traffic.

A letter was read from Mr. C. Laurysen with reference to an accident sustained at a culvert near the elevator, in which he had incurred a repair bill of $131 to his car.

A Policeman
A letter was read from Chief Ritchie, Calgary, with reference to the appointment of a policeman for Strathmore. This was left to the Police Committee.

Beer Licenses
After the reading of letters from Secretary-Treasurers of several other towns in the Province, it was decided to set the annual license for beer parlors at $5.00.

The firewall question was again discussed, and it was stated that several property owners on Second Street were willing to pay the additional assessment, but that replies had not been received from all. The matter was therefore held over.

Water Supply
It was decided to build a shed at the lake to house the pump and engine. It was also decided to write the Utilities Board with reference to the raising of $5,000 by debentures for construction of a water supply system for fire purposes in the town.

Instructions were also given to write Mr. R. A. Brown with regard to a supply of electric power.

A permit was granted Mr. H. W. B. Bell for use of sidewalk during construction of his new brick garage. Instructions were given for the repair of the cement sidewalk in places where it had been damaged by the July fire.

A number of other matters were dealt with.

WHO IS HE?

Twenty one years ago a certain manufacturer said:
"I will build a motor car for the multitude."

"It shall be large enough for the family but small enough for the unskilled individual to easily operate and care for."

"It shall be light in weight, but it must be economical in maintenance."

"It will be built of honest materials, by the best workmen that money can hire, after the simplest designs that modern engineering can devise."

"It shall be so low in price that a man of moderate means may own one."

Today this manufacturer built over ten million and a half of these cars.

His name —? We'll give you just one guess.

FALL IRRIGATION

A petition signed by between thirty and forty farmers asking that the period for supplying water in the fall be extended has been handed in to the local irrigation department of the C.P.R.

The experience of fall irrigation for several seasons past has been very satisfactory, and it is being used to a greater extent each year.

BIG RAILWAY MILEAGE

Canada has one mile of railway to every 250 people, a larger mileage proportion to population than any other country, with a total of nearly 40,000. The Government owns or controls a mileage of 22,665, the Canadian National Railway, making it the largest public-owned system in the world.

Social-Personal

Without consulting any of the authorities on etiquette, we will answer the question: "When is the proper time for a man to lift or remove his hat?" for the benefit of our readers. At the following times, and on the following occasions, respectively: The hat should be removed or lifted as circumstances indicate—when meeting the brow; when taking a bath; when eating; when going to bed; when taking up a collection; when having the hair trimmed; when being shampooed; and when standing on the head.

Mrs. J. French returned home last week from Banano, where she had been the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Sydney French for two weeks.

Mr. H. McVey, of Revelstoke, B.C. is again paying Strathmore a visit and is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Patrick.

Dr. and Mrs. Robinson motored to Altario, the Doctor's home town, where they will be the guests of Dr. Robinson's mother for a few days.

Miss Mary Stockton, and Messrs. Bob Stockton and Elton Haines, left on Saturday for Roseman, Montana, where they will attend college. Proof of their popularity was shown by the number of friends who assembled at the station to see them off and to wish them a successful year.

Mr. Harry Baker was in town on Sunday, renewing old acquaintances.

CHEADLE NOTES

Mr. M. Fisher of Lucknow, Ont. and sister, Mrs. Wm. Robertson, of Nanton, Alta., visited for a few days at Grant Craig's.

Jack McDonald, an old timer in the district, is helping W. J. Miller with his harvest and threshing.

Mr. W. J. Payne lost six milk cows and his Holstein bull one morning last week, when the herd was run into on the crossing by a freight train while Arthur was taking them to the pasture north of the town.

Mr. John McLean and Satchell Bros. unloaded a new threshing machine here this week.

School had to be closed down for a day last week on account of the cold. The new furnace having not arrived, but should be along soon, and when installed this will be one of the warmest schools in the country.

Some threshing was done before the rain shut down the machines. If the weather holds good threshing should be in full swing this week.

"BUTTON, BUTTON, WHO'S—?"

Were Americans to be greeted with such a sight as this, the first thing they would say is—"What button factory is he advertising? And where did he get the outfit?" But, let us tell you, kind readers—this proud driver and his "the-buttoner" family is not advertising anything and his queer outfit was a prize winner.

Carseland Centre-shots

We are wondering just what kind of a car Mr. Dalton is driving.

Frank Nash had the misfortune of losing two of his best horses last week.

Mrs. Crumsey was taken to the hospital in Calgary last Wednesday. Mrs. Crumsey has been ailing for some time from an attack of pleurisy. We all hope for an early recovery.

The rain last week held up many threshing outfits in the district.

Mr. W. L. Brown and family, and Mrs. Fred Roe were spending last week at Banff.

We wonder some times if there is really a place called Haintree or whether it's just a name. I see no reason why the "Sidelighter" could not have been written by the side of the bubbling waters where the scrub was trying to catch trout as such surroundings are fruitful of reminiscences of past and present. Keep this away from the goat.

Baker Brothers are very busy these days getting ready for their sale. Howard is expecting to leave for the new home in Michigan the first of October, while Clarence will remain with us some time.

The set of swings supplied by the P. R. Club to the Carseland school has all in place and are being immensely enjoyed by all the school children.

especially the little tots. Carseland community should be congratulated in having an organization public spirited enough to perform acts of this kind.

There were fifty-eight in Sunday school last Sunday. The school is to be divided by choosing sides for the purpose of increasing the membership, over a hundred being the goal.

Frank Nash expects to run Ben Cole's threshing engine this year.

Paul Cole reports his stubble wheat yielding eighteen bushels to the acre. Some very remarkable crops are reported this year considering the drought condition of the season.

Howard Baker and family took dinner with B. A. Bishop and family last Sunday.

The Carseland school organized an athletic club. There will be five teams for playing basket ball; there will also be a football team. A literary society will be a fall swing in the near future. It begins to look as though the school would be shaped into a well rounded organization, not only inside the school room but outside as well.

We are adding one more stanza to the poem from Haintree. Pardon our presumption, but we speak from experience:

It's nice to be a farmer when the crops are looking fine;

And we're thinking of next winter in some being southern climes; But the streaked cloud approaches, and the hail comes tearing through.

Then our trip to California is a "next year's item too."

We are glad to know that the goat has come back to life. However we think our friend is all wrong in thinking the monkey gland off had anything to do with it. It is our opinion it was the superior quality and strength of the "Centre-shots" that if we remember correctly, caused his death which proved to be no death at all, but only a stupor, and when the life-saving influence of the diet began to work, Billy simply woke up and we hope he will be a much better and wiser goat.

The story of the big fish that Haintree told last week reminds us of something that happened to me when I was much younger than I am now. One of the chores father gave me to do was to lead the horses down the lane and turn them into the pasture. One evening, I have slipped the halter off the horse, I carelessly threw the halter over my shoulder and started back. When I got about half way home I chanced to look back and discovered a long snake following me. Of course I was frightened and started to run. I kept glancing back and discovered the faster I ran the faster the snake followed. Finally I became panic stricken and nearly they until I finally reached the safety of a friendly gate, and looking back discovered the awful snake was only the halter rope that had been dragging in the dust.

Balfour's Sidelights

Thanks for the kind invitation, Balfour. We late to turn it down, but I'm old standing. As the learned Judge says: "Circumstances over which we have no control prevent us." Next year we will be fishing in your pond of calamity and in the interval hope you will fill the creek right to the top. Yes, we mean it all the way.

Just to remind you that church services are again being held every other Wednesday evening.

While spending a few days at a well-known summer resort, it was our good fortune to meet three very interesting personalities. All were Americans and were in Alberta to obtain information on the working of the liquor act. Here he is said, the Alberta Liquor Act has aroused a good deal of interest in many parts of the world. Two of them believed in prohibition and the third was a lawyer from Virginia, who was also looking forward to a change in the conditions that exist across the line. The trio freely admitted that prohibition was very uncommensurate with the places visited, and all expressed their admiration for the law and order that prevailed in our country.

We always have had the respect from our neighbors. You can do your share. If a second drink is going to cause calce to you, then I think, play fair with yourself. You have secured an act by voting for it. It looks good to outsiders. Protect your neighbors at all times by using brains only in moderation. In plain English, never get drunk. It degrades you in the eyes of all your friends, last-minute included. Threshing is going along smoothly in the district, and on the whole yields are panning out as expected. A few farmers who had large areas of summerfallow will make a little money. A few through hail, drought, and other misfortunes will hold the bag, while the remainder will be glad to break even on the season's operation. If you have been fortunate, put a little away in a safe place. Don't forget that in some other season we will have to slog: "It ain't again to Balm no Mo'". If you can't make the grade don't worry. Old man. Worrying never helps. A ray in distress yet, but it has driven lots of poor causes to the grave. What ever happens never let misfortune eat your soul. See what you will follow, we'd rather eat misfortune without anger in this vale of tears than float around on wings, floating on canvas backs and Aerolis food, and if half of the truth was told, so would you.

Two fishermen were engaged in a lawsuit, and while Mike was giving his evidence, Pat stared towards the door. "Here my man" said the judge, who, by the way, was also Irish. "Where are you going?" "I can't listen to Mike telling so many lies," replied Pat. "Well," said his honor, "How would you like to be me and listen to the two of you telling lies?"

F. W. Logan is building a new home on the place north of Balfour, rented by Oscar Olsen. With Pete Denham in charge of the operation it is safe to assume that when completed it will be a real home.

Union Church Notes

We are glad to announce that the special service for our Anniversary Service will be Dr. A. S. Tuttle, Principal of Alberta College, Edmonton. These services will be November 22nd next. The annual Turkey Supper will be served on the following Monday, after which Dr. Tuttle will give a lecture on the subject: "Our World, Great and Small". These services will be of great value to this community.

The Sunday School Department of the churches of the Dominion are doing splendid work in their endeavor to focus attention on the Christian Citizenship of this country, and this is vitally bound up with our Sunday Schools and Young People's Societies. Everybody please put in an appearance at our services next Sunday, and we are aiming at a minimum offering of $1 per family toward the support of this work.

Mrs. Parker in the name of the entire Plain View Colony, with goods for a beautiful dress and its accessories. After lunch, which was prepared by Helen, was served, the guests departed, wishing Mrs. Parker as many more birthdays and then some, and a promise that they would all be back in twenty-five years.

Mrs. Parker says it was a complete surprise, and she thinks she was made as near speechless as a woman ever was but that she is going to be all dressed up and have a speech all prepared and say it, if necessary or not, next time.

Rosebud Notes

On Saturday afternoon next, at 2:30 the L.F.W.A. will hold its regular meeting in Rosebud Church, also a social afternoon. All the farm women of the district are cordially invited to attend.

Do not forget the Farmers' Harvest Dance, to be held in Rosebud Hall on October 10th. There will be a good four-piece orchestra. Admission $1.00, lunch 25c.

The Rosebud United Sunday School held a picnic at the church on Saturday afternoon last. There were about forty-five children present and a number of parents, besides the teachers. The children had a splendid time, with an abundance of lunch, besides ice cream, peanuts, and candy, and the day was voted a complete success.

On Sunday evening last Mr. Walker preached his farewell sermon in Rosebud church. There was a good attendance, and the people of the district are sorry to see Mr. Walker leave us. So far nothing definite has been arranged in regard to services during the winter months, but as soon as the Board of Managers decides, notice will be given through this column.

Mrs. Archie Gow is resuming her classes in pianoforte in Rosebud on Saturday, October 4th. Pupils will be prepared for examinations of the Associated Board, and the Toronto Conservatory of Music. "Finger and Nose" Print Lion Cubs

"Wee-ow! Wee-ow! Let go of us. We're not criminals!"

If the loving-looking little lion cubs pictured here could talk—that's just about what they would be yelling. You see they're having their nose and finger—or, rather, paw—prints taken so that Mr. and Mrs. Charles Gay, who are shown holding the "youngsters," can tell 'em apart.

Mr. and Mrs. Gay, who conduct the only lion farm in the world near El Monte, Calif., had quite some difficulty identifying their many pets until they hit upon the above method. Now they put every cub through the same process. But, judging from the squirming positions of these little fellows—that game may be alright for criminals, but for them it is too much of a "freaky up" job. However, it's all over in a minute and then, it's back to play again. Not so bad.

The Gays have a flock of 350 lions of all sizes and ages. Many of them are being used in the movies—particularly comedy work. Quite interesting

War Records

The "Red Deer News" lambastes General (or Dr) Fielt and his party for putting the soft pedal on the General's war record at the recent Federal election in Rimouski, Province of Quebec. General Fielt was the Liberal candidate, and was returned at the poll.

We do not blame Dr. Fielt for not embellishing his military title. It appears that he did not leave Canada during the war. Most of the people who display military titles nowadays are Honorary Colonels, Major Generals, chaplains, veterinarians, and so forth.

The reason alleged by the News for Dr. Fielt's modesty, however, is not that he does not like the title, but because he endeavored to convince the Rimouski electorate that he was not really in favor of conscription, but carried out the instructions of the Government as a matter of organizing supply.

We can probably throw a little more light on the subject dealt with by the "News" editorial writer. We passed through Quebec and Montreal a couple of days before the bye-election, and found that the reason the "Generals" was minimizing his war record was that the Conservatives of Quebec were pointing him out to the Quebecers as one of those who was responsible for their sons being taken into the army. In fact, we are informed that at one of the meetings the Conservative orator pointed to a nearby memorial tablet and told his audience that if it had not been for the Liberal candidate the boys whose names were on the tablet would have been at home and alive.

It is not likely that the Liberals would have mentioned conscription at this election if the Conservatives had not used it as a handle against the Liberal candidate. Raking up the past is poor business anyway.

Under these circumstances it is hardly to be wondered at that Dr. Fielt slipped on his military activities, considering the attitude of many in Quebec towards conscription, but the Conservative party are not to be congratulated on their choice of campaign material, and we cannot confess to being sorry that their candidate did not trimp at the polls.

Attend the School Fair

Tuesday, September 23, is the date of Strathmore and District School Fair. More School Districts are represented than in any former year, the prize list is much larger, and in every way this should be a comprehensive exhibit of the products of the district.

While this is a school children's fair, the adults should encourage the children by their attendance.

The element of competition (which means the doing of something better than the other fellow or the other girl) is stimulated by these fairs. Then there are athletic sports, giving the children an opportunity to exhibit their prowess in that direction. The boys and girls of today are the citizens of the future. School fairs and similar activities encourage them to play the game as it should be played, show that you are behind them, encourage and attending the Fair next Tuesday.

Rev. CanonMontgomery Resigns

The many friends of Rev. Canon H. Montgomery, M. A., will congratulate him on the attainment of his 70th birthday on the first of the present month. Rev. Montgomery was from 1919 to 1921 Rector of St. Michael's Parish, Strathmore, going to Banff in the latter year. He has announced that he will resign the pastorate of St. George's Parish, Banff, at the beginning of October. He and Mrs. Montgomery will probably take up residence in Calgary. Mr. Montgomery was ordained into the Anglican Church of Canada forty-three years ago.

Rev. Henry Montgomery is in the truest sense of the word a self-made man. Born at Richmond, Carleton county, New Brunswick, September 1, 1854, his mother died at his birth and his father followed a few years later, leaving the orphan lad at the tender age of 12 years to fight the battle of life alone. Even at that early age the boy set himself a goal and began to steadily climb toward it. Running errands, doing odd jobs and selling newspapers on the streets of Woodstock, N.B., he supported himself and saved enough money to work his way through the Woodstock grammar school, where he was awarded a medal for general proficiency—today one of the most cherished possessions.

After graduating from the grammar school he wandered about for a time and finally, drifted to Fredericton, N.B., where Dr. Parkin, LL.D., C.M.G., a famous Imperialist and one of the greatest educationalists of the day, interested himself in the boy and had him admitted to the collegiate institute at Fredericton. By diligent work and with the advice and assistance of Dr. Parkin he was prepared to enter the University of New Brunswick. Through the kindness of the late Rev. Canon Roberts he was privileged to live at the Fredericton rectory while attending the university. Up till 1912 Canon Montgomery held eastern charges, but in that year he was inducted as rector of St. Barnabas, Calgary. He resigned from St. Barnabas to go overseas at the beginning of the Great War, and on his return came to Strathmore. His family has a notable military record.

Canadian Editors In Scotland

Article XI Overseas Visit

During two months of the present year over one hundred and seventy Canadian newspapermen and news-papemen visited Belgium, France, England, Wales, Scotland, and Ireland, for the greater part of their time over there being guests of the Press Associations of the countries visited. A primary object of the visit was to give Canadian newspapermen an opportunity to observe conditions as they really are in the Motherland and in countries which were allied to us during the war, and to deepen the bonds of friendship within the Empire and among the Allies. As a member of the party, the editor of the Standard contributed a number of articles to these columns while overseas, and having now returned will continue these articles for some weeks to come, in the hope that they will be of interest to our readers. Western Canadian editors are vitally interested in conditions in Britain and the Continent, as these provide the outlet for the greater part of our exportable surplus of agricultural commodities, and our welfare is affected by the welfare of the countries across the Atlantic.

The Canadian Press Party arrived in Waverley Station, Edinburgh on the evening of July 21st. Waverley, by the way, is one of the largest railway stations in the world, trains leaving and arriving there every minute during the day.

Edinburgh

Most of our readers know that Edinburgh is the capital of Scotland. It is not the largest city in Scotland, Glasgow having that honour. Edinburgh has a population of about half a million people, and is one of the greatest centres of education and culture in the world. Graduates from Edinburgh University will be found all over the world, and many doctors and surgeons take a post-graduate course there after receiving their degree in America and Canadian Universities. No city in the world of its size has more history to the square mile than Edinburgh. It is the capital of a people whose proud boasts it that they have never been conquered. In the "old, unhappy, far off days" England and Scotland were in a state of constant friction. The fault for this warfare is probably on both sides. Hundreds of marauders from Scotland often invaded England. England had always the idea that Scotland should form part of it. They almost had possession, too, for a while, under the weak-kneed appointee of King Edward the First, but Scotland's two greatest heroes, William Wallace and King Robert Bruce, led the forces of Scotland to ultimate victory. Relics of the days of Bruce and Wallace are preserved in various towns and cities of Scotland, and from their day on the history of Scotland is well-known, and is epitomized in Edinburgh. The precipitous wall scaled by Scotland's heroes when they, in Wallace's time, took back the castle from the English, the apartments associated with the famous but ill-fated Mary Queen of Scots, the Scottish Crown, jewels, and sceptre are on display at the castle. In the hanging hall are the portraits of the Kings of Scotland and against the walls are the arms used in combat from the earliest times of the nation. At the present time a great war memorial to the Scotsmen who died during the Great War is being erected on the Castle Rock.

The High Street of Edinburgh commences at the Castle, and at its lower end is Holyrood Palace. The buildings on the High Street are largely the same as they were four and five hundred years ago, and it shows advancement in one sense at least, that the houses where the aristocracy of Scotland lived in these days would not be taken by anyone wishing a comfortable home, even if given for nothing. The new city of Edinburgh spreads out for miles around, with beautiful houses, gardens, and lawns, but ancient Edinburgh is now largely in possession of the slum dwellers, or preserved for historical uses.

The Birthplace of Presbyterianism

One building of great interest to visitors from all over the world is John Knox's house, the birthplace of Presbyterianism, otherwise known as the religion of intellectualism. Off the High Street is St. Giles' Cathedral, a fine pre-reformation church, and one in which the great reformer used to thunder against the evils of his day.

and where Jenny Geddes made visible protest against the reading of mass by having her stool at the preacher's head. Scotland has much to thank John Knox for. He laid it down that every parish should have a school as well as a church, a dictum which carried into effect, has accounted for the erection of a comparatively small nation has had on the world at large.

"Home Rule for England"

On the High Street are also the Law Courts, and the Parliament House. Nowadays Scotland has no parliament of its own, having united with England a couple of hundred years ago, but Scotland is well represented in the British Parliament, the majority of the Prime Ministers for the past thirty years, as well as the present Prime Minister, having hailed from the north. One of the things has led to a complaint by some Englishmen that what is wanted is English Home Rule. There is a movement on foot at present for a scheme of devolution, according to which so much on patriotic grounds, but on the basis that Parliament is now taking so much to do with the ordinary life of the people that a central government in London is unwieldy. It is very likely that a few years hence will see a Scottish Parliament in session in the old Parliament Buildings. Holyrood Palace stands as it stood for hundreds of years. Queen Mary's suite of rooms is there, with its original furnishings, and the spot is shown where Elizabeth was stabbed, while hiding behind the skirts of the Queen.

James Brown's Apartments

It is stated that among overseas visitors this year there has been more curiosity to see the apartment where James Brown lived during his occupancy of the Palace than to see those where Queen Mary lived. It will be remembered that James Brown, a working man, was deputed for the King as High Commissioner this year at Holyrood. He performed his duties efficiently and with dignity, and then returned to his humble cottage in an Ayrshire mining village. Democracy still flourishes in Scotland.

It is impossible to describe Edinburgh in the compass of a newspaper article. A column could be taken up describing Princes' Street, "the finest Street in Europe," with the Castle Rock and Park on one side, and the fine stores on the other.

Edinburgh was a great city in the past. She is a great city now, and will be even greater in the future. While it is not a manufacturing city, with the seaport of Leith it has a number of manufacturing establishments, but primarily Edinburgh is a city of learning.

Specialists in all branches of human endeavor, especially medicine, surgery, and law, practice their profession there. You will see more tall hats and frock coats in Edinburgh in half an hour than you will in practical work-day Glasgow, in a week.

The Provost Entertainers

The Canadian newspapermen were very hospitably entertained while in Edinburgh, at luncheon by the newspapermen of the city, and in the evening by the Lord Provost and Town Council of the city. The Lord Provost in Scotland corresponds to the Mayor in Canadian cities. The job is the same, though the name is different.

The word "Provost" like many other Scottish names, has a French origin, and reminds one that for five hundred years there existed an offensive and defensive pact between France and Scotland, this being embodied in the French Colony of Edinburgh pay tribute to the services rendered by the men of Scotland to "their ancient Ally" during the great war. The same sentiment is also embodied in the wording of the memorials to Scottish soldiers in France.

During their time in Edinburgh the visitors were shown the city from all angles, and many also took the opportunity of motoring ten miles out and seeing that triumph of mechanical ingenuity, the Forth Bridge.

Edinburgh is Scotland's show place, full of historical art treasures. The views are wonderful. From the Castle the city is spread out before the view, the only higher point being the mass of Arthur's seat, an eight hundred foot hill which rises at its environs. Why, that exception the view is interrupted for miles around. The shoreline of the estuary of the Forth, with its Forth and shipping, stands out plainly.

To the Scotsman Edinburgh is still "Edinboro," Scottish "darling seat," to quote Sir Walter Scott.

EDMONTON BYE-ELECTION

WESTERN CANADA'S RIVER OF WHEAT

A NEVER-ENDING stream of gold, flowing from the farms of the Prairie Provinces to the consumers of bread stuffs in all parts of the world, is represented by the movement of the farmers' grain to the market.

Beginning in August each year, and in some years flowing constantly forward until August of the following year, this everlasting river of wheat is Western Canada's contribution to the feeding of the civilized world. In the movement of this crop from the country elevators and loading platforms of the Prairie Provinces, the Canadian National Railways by year are playing a more important part.

Long before the western farmer has finished his seeding in the spring, preparations have been made by the railways to move his crop. Cars must be ordered, for each year new equipment must be provided for the movement of the grain; other cars, which have been in service, must be brought into the repair yards and overhauled or rebuilt according to their needs. For the movement of grain is a strenuous work, and cars show the effects of a season's haulage. And, since cars could not move forward without motive power, new locomotives of immense hauling power are necessary and must be ordered, while those which have already seen service in this strenuous work must also be

When it is realized that upwards of 50,000 grain cars are on the same period each successive season for five years.

Each day through the grain movement, both on line through the west and at the terminals, the cars are fast loaded from terminal elevators as cars discharge their cargoes.

To make this possible agents of this department are placed there to see that the grain movement is kept up to the standard that it is possible for this work to be successfully carried to the two outlets, the Great Lakes and the Pacific ports, means that train loads of grain must be kept constantly on the move, both eastbound and westbound. The growing importance of the Pacific outlet is shown by the fact that Canadian National cars deliver to Vancouver during the grain year just closed have been almost five times greater than as during the season of 1922-23, and as more facilities are provided for the handling of the westbound shipments it is expected that the next few years will see enormous gains still being made year by year in this movement.

An elaborate system of tabulating the grain situation daily is operated by the officials of this department. Each day through the grain movement, both on line through the west and at the terminals, the cars are fast loaded from terminal elevators as cars discharge their cargoes.
